International Treasury & Cash Management

Late this year, Vienna will be hosting the most senior-level international treasury event with a proven track record of predicting future trends. The International Treasury and Cash Management event will discuss the current and future challenges of the current treasury landscape while deliberating over the tipping points that may radically change the nature of treasury in the years to come. Apart from discussing Basel, the changing tax landscapes, the benefits of supply chain finance, new technologies and the world of process efficiencies like POBO/COBO, the event will have the following items on its agenda:

- The FinTech hype and the technologies that will really matter to treasury in the future
- Cyber security and treasury weak points
- The cost of terror, the end of Europe, the coming profit shock and the new ?super risks?
- A realistic future of banking
- Reasons to be cheerful
- Process vs. vision ? getting the best of both worlds for treasury and the company
